

The FCC has been progressively allowing larger and larger blocks of broadcasting by single conglomerates. If they cannot compete against another unit, this is an impediment to free trade. There is no reason not to allow local broadcast on limited items by XM Radio. They know the services I want. I won't listen to local programming because of the crap they put on the air. If I choose to vote with my $$ for XM, then let me hear what I wish to hear, when I wish to hear it.
